

Making the most of the provider resources to support numeracy staff development

What are they?

Providers working with the Skills for Life Support Programme in 2009/2010 have developed and shared a whole range of products and resources. Details of some of the resources and approaches taken for developing staff skills in numeracy teaching are given here.

How to use them

Consider the ideas, approaches and resources shared here to see if they would be relevant within your own setting.

More about what is available

- When West Suffolk College developed resources to support active and collaborative learning. They also developed CPD activities and materials for tutors to understand more about active learning and develop their confidence to use the materials. Click here to read about their work and see the CPD PPT and booklet developed.
- Kiara Training developed a contextualised PTLLS course for numeracy. Read about what they did here.

Click here to see their materials.

- First Choice College have shared their collaborative professional development process to develop tutors and assessors' personal numeracy skills.